

ROBBERS GETTING BOLDER!

ROBBERY SEQUENCE: Locations of seven robberies in Benton Harbor and Benton township are numbered on the map in order in which holdups occurred starting July 9. No. 1, Freeway Service station, 353 East Main street; No. 2, Pacer Service station, 869 East Main; Nos. 3 and 4, Zephyr service station, 790 East Main, robbed twice; No. 5, Angelo Brothers Party store, 322 Territorial road; No. 6, Comet Discount store, 1237 Territorial; No. 7, Noack's Grocery store, Britain and Crystal avenues. A Buchanan service station robbery July 15 also may be linked to the series.

Number 8: Benton Grocery

Strike 24
Hours After
$6,000 Haul

An increasingly bolder gang of masked bandits, who strike on weekends, may be responsible for eight robberies in Berrien county in a month. A robbery Saturday at Noack's Grocery store, Britain and Crystal avenues, Benton township, was committed by three gunmen — the most involved in a single holdup during the series that started July 9.

The wave prompted Benton Harbor Mayor Wilbert Smith to say he will confer with Gov. George Romney on the possibility of obtaining additional state police patrols to beef up local forces in areas of high robbery incidence.

An undetermined amount of cash and checks was seized at Noack's store. The robbery occurred 24 hours after bandits made their biggest haul — an estimated $6,000 in cash and checks from the Comet Discount store, 1237 Territorial road, Benton township.

One report that $9,000 was taken in the robbery Saturday night was completely without foundation, according to Store Owner Kenneth Noack. He stated he does not know yet how much money was taken from the cash register, because the register tape is missing. He conjectured the bandits either took or destroyed the tape.

SIMILAR TACTICS

Bandits have hit five Benton Harbor business places, two in Benton township and one in Buchanan. Police are not positive that members of the same gang are responsible for all the robberies, but similarities in operation, masks and general descriptions indicate apparent connections. Bandits were reported as Negroes in all cases.

Loot totals more than $10,000 in cash and checks. No shots have been fired and no one has been injured. Police have been unable to obtain descriptions of get-away cars indicating the bandits park some distance from the robbery scene, apparently to avoid identification of autos.

The trio at Noack's store wore nylon stocking masks. Two of them brandished pistols. The other carried a shotgun that appeared new. Police noted two new shotguns were taken in the Comet Discount store robbery Friday.

Sheriff's Sgt. Forrest Jewell reported the gunmen struck about closing time at 9 p.m. Mrs. Lucille Deckard, cashier, 1010 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, was ordered to clean out the cash register and turn the money over to the bandits.

Two male employees, Andrew Johnson, a butcher, 573 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, and Mrs. Deekard's husband, Claude, were ordered to lie on the floor. Also in the store was Mrs. Kenneth (Lucille) Noack, co-owner with her husband.

'GET IT ALL'
One bandit was described as about 45 years old, tall and thin. He kept repeating to Mrs. Deckard "get it all" in referring to the money in the cash register, according to Jewell's report.

Another was said to be 5 feet, 8 inches tall with a dark shirt and cap. The man with the shotgun was reported as 25 to 30 years with no other features described.

Five of the robberies were at service stations, three at stores. The sequence:

July 9 — Freeway Service station, 353 East Main street, Benton Harbor, one bandit wearing a stocking mask, the other no mask.

July 9 — Pacer Service station, 869 East Main street, (See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

EIGHTH TARGET OF BANDITS: Noack's Grocery store, Britain and Crystal avenues, Benton township, was the eighth business place held up by masked gunmen since July 9. Seven of the robberies were in Benton Harbor and Benton township. Another was a Buchanan service station. Noack's store was robbed Saturday by three bandits.

Cyclists Cause Muskegon Trouble

Gangs Hit Taverns, Start
Fires, Swim Nude

MUSKEGON (AP)—One man was injured and 12 persons arrested as unruly crowds of motorcycle riders, ripped at high speed along streets, raced their machines through bonfires, invaded taverns and swam in the nude Sunday.

Muskegon County sheriff's men charged 11 men and a girl with disorderly conduct. Some were arrested for swimming nude, others for taking a motorboat from a man.

The disturbances broke out among an estimated 600 cycle riders who came to watch the 25th annual National Motorcycle Hill Climb Championships at Mt. Garfield, south of Muskegon off Lake Michigan.

State Police said at least 200 of the cyclists were trouble-makers.

During the heart of disturbances, William Militello, 21, of Bay City, suffered a fractured ankle. He was admitted to Hackley Hospital in Muskegon. About 50 sheriff's deputies and police, armed with tear gas, riot guns and rifles, watched over the crowd Sunday.

Earlier, police said, cyclists invaded a number of bars, throwing glasses, taking food off plates of patrons and breaking up dancing couples. One club closed. Seven others reported trouble to authorities.

In early morning hours, some cyclists who were camping near Mt. Garfield tore down a reviewing stand and two portable out-houses for wood to feed bonfires. Police said they raced their cycles through the flames.

Officers said some cyclists exploded fireworks, tossed ammunition into fires and rolled flaming tires down the hill.

About 20 riders invaded the Pontaluna Country Club, a private club about a mile from the hill, police said. They said the cyclists toppled over chairs, grabbed food and drinks from patrons and barged out without paying for drinks.

Ten sheriff's men who answered the first trouble call late Saturday night said a crowd of cyclists turned back the officers, telling them they would be shot if they entered the hill area. The deputies left, returned with reinforcements and cordoned off the area.

Sudden Heart Attack Fatal To Dr. Rague

Senior Local Radiologist
Only 53 Years Old

Dr. Paul O. Rague, senior radiologist for Mercy and Memorial hospitals in the Twin Cities and for several other area hospitals, died unexpectedly in his home, 1287 Seneca road, Benton Harbor, at 2:30 a.m. Sunday. He was 53.

Widely known and respected in the medical, professional and hospital field of the area, he had been in charge of all X-ray examination work for the two Twin Cities hospitals and for the Watervliet Community, South Haven Community and Berrien County hospitals.

Death was caused by a sudden heart attack.

Dr. Rague was born April 6, 1913 in Middletown, Ohio, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Henry S. Rague.

He was graduated from Manchester, Mich., high school in 1931, and from the University of Michigan in 1935. He completed the University of Michigan Medical school in 1939.

He interned at the Robert Packer hospital, Sayre, Pa., and practiced medicine in Manchester from June 1940, until February 1941, at which time he was called to active duty with the Army Medical Corps.

During World War II, as a major, he served in Iceland, in the European theater, and in the Pacific area until his discharge in March, 1946.

Dr. Rague took his radiology training at Harper hospital, Detroit, from 1946 to 1949 and moved to the Benton Harbor area in July, 1949.

He had currently served as vice-chief-of-staff of the Memorial hospital, past chief-of-staff of Mercy hospital, past president of the Berrien County Medical society, current delegate to the Michigan State Medical society, and past medical chairman of the Berrien County Cancer society.

Several organizations, of which Dr. Rague was a member, include the Twin Cities Rotary club, Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce, Berrien Hills Country club, the American College of Radiology and the Southwestern Michigan Academy of Medicine.

Survivors include his widow, the former Gladys Wuerthner, to whom he was married on Aug. 29, 1941, in Manchester;

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, of which Dr. Rague was a member and former deacon. The Rev. James F. Burgdorf, associate minister, will officiate.

Burial will be in Riverview cemetery, St. Joseph.

The Florin funeral home, Benton Harbor, is in charge of arrangements, where friends may call until 12 noon Tuesday.

Ray Mittan, chairman of the centennial, promised Gov. Romney—and the thousands of other expected spectators — that the pageant would be "a surprisingly good show."

The title for the pageant is taken from a book about early Benton Harbor history, written by Mrs. Catharine Moulds, a Benton Harbor school teacher.

The first of four performances will begin at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow on Filstrup field. General admission is $1.50; reserved seats are $2.

Besides seeing the spectacular, with the cast of 300 Benton Harbor area residents, Gov. Romney will crown the queen of the centennial.

Benton Harbor's Birthday

We would urge our readers to make it a point this week to visit one or as many more possible of the events in the Benton Harbor centennial celebration.

Technically, this 100th birthday party is slightly late. Our sister city officially began its life as a village in July of 1866, but finding a suitable time in which to assemble the manpower and other resources needed to put on a good show caused this slight delay.

Our Saturday's edition listed the festivities in detail, so we won't attempt to repeat them here and shall simply confine ourselves to saying that the reader will find his time well spent to take in as many as he can.

The affair is as much a Twin City endeavor as it is strictly a Benton Harbor show and in that regard follows the pattern of St. Joseph's centennial in 1934. Townspeople from each community are joining in the labor necessary to stage a worthwhile endeavor.

The major difference between the two celebrations is one to be sensed rather than measured by the physical measurement of sight and sound.

This perception has its roots in the 1860s.

The settlement of this area in the early 1800s established St. Joseph as a shipping and trading center, first known as Newburyport once the fledgling United States had established a firm dominion over the midwestern countryside.

The land east from the river was devoted to farming and some lumbering. Its occupants used St. Joseph as the funnel to dispose of their surplus products and to acquire goods and tools from the outside world.

A ferry was the first means of negotiating the river, followed later by a wooden bridge.

Legend has it that the bridge burned one day. This touched off an argument as to whom should replace it, the St. Joseph tradesmen or their farmer customers across the river.

The latter declined to subsidize the project. This so provoked the spokesmen for the eastern shore settlers that they decided to create their own trading center. The ship canal followed some ten years later as a public subscription enterprise and for the purpose of giving the new village direct access to the lake.

It was at that point that the village took on its present name. The Harbor bespoke the rivalry already built up against St. Joseph and Benton was bestowed in honor of Thomas Benton, one of the men who pioneered the village's establishment. Later he was to be similarly honored when the village obtained its first fire engine and affectionately dubbed it the Tom Benton.

The fortunes of commerce favored both communities. The growth pattern, however, was dissimilar and even before the turn of the century the more aggressive spirit of the Benton Harbor business community was pushing its area ahead of St. Joseph in population and trading results.

This development cemented deeper than ever the rivalry engendered a year following the Civil War, and old timers from both towns can tell tales of what it meant for a group of St. Joe boys to go into Benton Harbor or for the reverse to take place. A fist fight was the mildest spark thrown by that visitation.

The two towns did get together, though, in the early 1890s to pull a caper which still ripples in the south end of the county. This was the "stealing of the court house" from Berrien Springs and moving the county seat to St. Joe. The Benton Harbor vote helped mightily in this nefarious plot, as the south enders called it.

Better transportation in the form of the now long departed street railway nailed in the next step to better communications between the two cities.

It remained, however, for the post World War II trend in urban America to forge an integration which is not apparent on a map.

Economically, this intertwining is so complete that one town could not get along without the other today. The partnership extends into the political realm by way of a jointly owned airport and sewage treatment plant and the meshing of water supply and public safety tactics.

The independent soul is not keen on togetherness, but as one old enough to remember the dying yet resistant aspects of that old rivalry, we vote for what has replaced it.

Obviously we won't be around for St. Joe's 200th birthday or Benton Harbor's second centennial, but we like to think of this week's celebration as a reminder of what greater progress can be made for the area if today's reality can be strengthened even more.

Satellite Control

Ever since the Russians put the first Sputnik satellite into orbit in October, 1957, engineers have been aware that these spinning spheres thousands of miles in the sky would be ideal broadcasting transmitters.

The Telstar and Early Bird communications satellites, which bridge the continents with their TV and radio pictures, have proved that such signals can be transmitted economically and clearly over limitless distances.

Now the satellites have come home. The Ford Foundation has proposed to the Federal Communications Commission that a system of domestic satellites be constructed for the sending of TV and radio broadcasts from sea to shining sea. The foundation added a controversial proposal for underwriting this scheme.

The foundation's plan calls for a private, non-profit corporation to operate these domestic satellites, selling the service to the three national networks at a cost under what they are now paying American Telephone and Telegraph for using its coaxial cable. Part of the profit would go toward a network of educational stations offering cultural programs.

There was instant opposition to the Ford Foundation proposal. AT&T saw many technical bugs in the plan, adding that if satellites were the answer, then the telephone companies could provide it. Comsat, with its 200,000 stockholders, pointed out it is the only satellite company authorized to deal in such matters.

The Carnegie Corp., with the blessing of President Johnson, has been investigating the future of non-commercial television, and it has yet to be heard from.

The question of who should control the satellites will require wisdom, fairness and patience, but control should be within the sphere of private enterprise.

Back To The Movies

Confidence in the future of the motion picture industry is apparent in the number of new theaters springing up across the country. Trade sources estimate that nearly 15,000 movie houses are in operation in the nation, or about 1,200 more than at the beginning of last year and 2,400 more than three years ago.

Attendance has been picking up, too, with 47 million persons going to the movies every week last year, or nearly eight million more than in 1958, the low point of the television era. While attendance is still far below the 90 million a week of the peak 1946-48 period, moviegoers are paying higher prices than ever. Gross receipts reached a record $1.8 billion last year, or about $500 million more than the average for 1946-48.

Hollywood has thus found a sizable, and growing, audience is deserting the free fare at home for entertainment that can be enjoyed without three back-to-back commercials at every climactic moment.

BERRIEN VOTES FOR COBO

Berrien county voters yesterday showed a decided preference in the Republican race for the gubernatorial nomination for Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo over Donald S. Leonard. The margin was 5,779 for Cobo against 3,296 for Leonard. Mayor Cobo was chosen overwhelmingly by Republicans as the party's hope of breaking Democrat G. Mennen Williams' eight-year grip on the Michigan governorship.

Gov. Williams, unopposed on the Democratic side, was accorded 3,525 votes in Berrien.

Inside Washington

By HENRY CATHCART

Washington — The Republican campaign for the 1968 presidential nomination has gotten off to an extremely early start. Usually, the "out" party doesn't concern itself with the nomination at least until after the off-year congressional elections have been held.

But these are exceptional times in politics, and certainly in Republican politics. GOP aspirants for that high office can't forget that Barry Goldwater's backers won the nomination for him in 1960 largely because of the absence of serious drives by other GOP leaders until it was too late.

Thus, Michigan Gov. George Romney has a plan at work and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has really never stopped running. Even Ronald Reagan is in there saying the right things and seeing the right people, although he must win the upcoming California gubernatorial election if he is to have any chance at all at the 1968 grand prize.

It is interesting to note that Republican politics are running their classical course. The Republican rank-and-file voters want a "liberal" standard bearer, and here lies Romney's early strength. The Republican Party leaders and pros continue to gravitate toward a more "conservative" man, and here lies Nixon's hope.

True, Nixon has claimed, at one time or another, to be virtually every kind of Republican known in the political spectrum, but he can safely be placed somewhere to the right of Romney and the left of Reagan.

It remains to be seen whether any Republican with early foot can sustain the pace for more than two years. Romney has many hazards to overcome, not the least being an ability to avoid boring the public. Nixon is too familiar and his image needs a face-lifting. Reagan appears too much the product of Madison Avenue.

At this stage, the best bet is on some dark horse, yet unidentified, to leap out of the pack and take it all at the wire.

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Can a deviation of the septum of the nose be caused by an injury?

The nasal septum is mostly cartilage and separates the two compartments of the nose. Rarely, has a nose doctor ever seen a completely straight septum. They are almost always deviated or bent in one direction or another.

It is believed that the septum becomes bent during early growth and in the formation of the arch of the palate of the Dr. Coleman mouth.

Who has not had some kind of injury to the nose during childhood? It is so common that many deviations of the septum are falsely attributed to injury.

Minor fractures of the nose do not usually cause displacement of the septum from its normal position. Very severe fractures of the nose can definitely displace the septum and cause difficulty in breathing.

The operation to relieve a deviated septum is called a submucous resection. When the cases are carefully chosen the operation can be a very gratifying one.

Can a person over 70 safely undergo an operation for a prostate condition?

The age of a person is not the only or even the most important factor in the safety of this operation or any other surgery. It is the general condition that is important. When the heart, lungs, blood pressure and circulation are good the potential risks of surgery are reduced to a minimum.

The developments in today's anesthesia are so remarkable that the elderly are operated on with almost the same degree of safety as men and women in the ages of 50 to 70.

Before a physician recommends surgery all advantages are carefully balanced against any possible risk in order to insure the fastest recovery and the most successful results.

How can an attack of hiccups be stopped?

This question was once asked of a doctor who promptly said, "Ask your grandmother." He was right, for grandmothers always seem to have a trick that seems to work miracles.

A hiccup, or hiccough, is some kind of spasm of the diaphragm. In most situations the hiccup stops in a few minutes if casually neglected. If it persists these are some of the common ways to stop them.

Drink a glass of cold water without stopping.

Chew and swallow a hard crust of bread.

Breathe into a paper bag about ten times holding the bag tightly over the nose and mouth.

Hold an ice bag over the diaphragm for a few minutes.

Occasionally, long bouts of hiccups are associated with some general medical conditions. There are cases reported of people completely devitalized by long periods of hiccups. Anti-spasm medicines and hypnosis have been used successfully for the relief of persistent hiccups.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — Only thoroughly cooked pork is safe from trichinosis.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 NT Pass 1 2 NT
4 NT Pass 5 6

Opening lead — ace of spades.

This deal occurred in the finals of the Vanderbilt team of four championship in 1965. When the hand was played at the first table, the North-South pair on the Jacoby team arrived at six diamonds doubled on the bidding shown.

West's jump to four notrump was somewhat optimistic, as well as unsound, since even a response of five diamonds by East to show one ace would not have settled the question of whether or not a slam could be made. East's spade bid certainly did not guarantee solid trumps.

In the actual case, the Blackwood response of five clubs to show no aces gave South a chance to bid five diamonds, which North, in turn, raised to six. East doubled to stop West from bidding six spades, but this tactic boomeranged when South proceeded to make 12 tricks with the greatest of ease. West cashed the ace of spades and South scored 1,090 points.

At the second table, where the North-South cards were held by members of the Jordan team, the bidding went:

West North East South
1 NT Pass 1 2 NT
4 5 5 5
6 6 6 6

The two notrump bid was conventional and showed great length in the minor suits. It was the "unusual notrump." South's pass of five spades is hard to explain, since he had every reason to think that five spades would be made and that six diamonds was unlikely to go down much, if at all.

The six spade bid was also doubtful, but it is only fair to add that from West's viewpoint East might have had a hand suitable for a slam.

East went down one, but the Jacoby team still gained 1,040 points on the deal. They went on to win the Vanderbilt, but largely as a result of this one hand.

Centennial Celebration Is Opened

Big Week And Great Future Ahead For BH

The bridges crossed in the past and the future ahead of Benton Harbor were topics of Mayor Wilbert Smith and the Rev. Ellis Marshburn in the opening of the city's Centennial yesterday.

Sunday was named "Religious Heritage Day" of the celebration and today is "Pioneer Day."

The ceremonies yesterday included the official opening at Roosevelt Park, tours of historical landmarks, church open houses, a mayor's reception at the Holiday Inn and a religious heritage program at the River-view drive baseball diamond.

Today's events are to include a muzzle-loading firearms exhibition at Fairplain plaza from 2 to 4 p.m. followed by a horseshoe pitching contest at 4:30 and a square dance tonight beginning at 7:30, all in the plaza.

Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, in their regular luncheon meetings at the Vincent hotel today, were to honor the founding pioneers of Benton Harbor.

TEEN DANCE

A teenage dance will be held at Sterne Brunson school tonight from 8 to 11 p.m. with music by the Upper Crusts.

The Centennial rolls on stage tomorrow night with the premiere performance of "Chips Fell in the Valley," an historical pageant on the story of Benton Harbor. Among the first-nighters at Filstrup field will be Gov. George Romney who will crown the Centennial queen after the show.

Mayor Smith reminded those at the Roosevelt Park ceremony yesterday of the growth and prosperity Benton Harbor has enjoyed in the past 100 years, but he then declared that there is a hard road ahead.

"The future is a challenge to halt deterioration in Benton Harbor's downtown and neighborhood areas and restore the city's greatness," Smith said.

The Rev. Ellis Marshburn, pastor of Benton Harbor's First Presbyterian church, reminded a throng of men in derbies and top hats and women in ankle-length skirts of God's gifts to Benton Harbor in the past and stated that the continuing greatness of the community depended on continuing faith in God.

The Rev. Marshburn spoke Sunday evening at the religious heritage program at Riverview avenue ballpark.

GOD'S GIFTS

"God's gifts to the early community here included an abundance of fish in the rivers and the lake, furs that brought wealth to the community," the Rev. Marshburn said.

The Presbyterian pastor also described how Benton Harbor's first churches were established.

He said that early records show Sunday schools were being held by Baptists in Benton Harbor in the early 1890s. The Baptists chartered their church here and built a permanent church building at Pipestone and Church streets.

Also chartered in the 1860s were the Congregational and Methodist churches, but for years, many of the church groups met in schools and other makeshift locations for several years before constructing permanent buildings, he said.

Chase Ends With Arrest

Billie Wain Cates, 26, 1829 Territorial road, Benton township, was jailed on a reckless driving charge by township police early this morning. He is to appear before Township Justice Ralph Dahn today.

Patrolman Lynn Rivette said he chased Cate's car at 100 mph from the 1300 block of Territorial road eastward and made the arrest after Cate's car spun out of control and stopped at Thomas and Esther avenues in Benton Heights.

BH Mayor's Car Hit By Fire

Cause Of Blaze Is Unknown

Fire of undetermined origin this weekend swept the interior of a car owned by Benton Harbor Mayor Wilbert Smith.

The fire occurred late Saturday night or early Sunday morning while the vehicle, a 1957 Dodge, was parked in the driveway of Smith's Benton Harbor home, 785 LaSalle street. Flames apparently burned themselves out from lack of oxygen, as all the windows were closed.

Asked about possible arson, Smith said he recently had received a phone call from an anonymous man who said rocks would be thrown at his home.

Benton Harbor police and firemen reported that the cause of the fire is undetermined.

Smith said he discovered the damage about 9 a.m. Sunday when he was going to use the vehicle.

EXPLOSION AVERTED

The entire back seat area was burned out, with damage being equal on both sides. Foam rubber from the seat material had melted and oozed to the outside finish of the car. Firemen said possible serious damage through gasoline explosion was averted because the car was tightly closed.

Smith said his son, Wilbert A. Smith, Jr., 24, had used the car Saturday night and returned home about 8:30 p.m., leaving the vehicle parked in the driveway. The younger Smith said he had been to a movie and had not been smoking during the time.

'Old Timers' Of B.H.H.S. Reminisce

Class Of 1916 Honored At Reunion Banquet

With the city celebrating its centennial this week, there was a special air of appropriateness to this year's annual reunion of Benton Harbor high school graduates.

Fond memories returned for 137 "Old Timers" of BHHS as they gathered Saturday night for a banquet in the Tropical Room of the Whitcomb hotel, St. Joseph.

Specially honored at the Alumni Association affair were members of the class of 1916, who graduated 50 years ago last Spring.

There were only 41 graduates from Benton Harbor high in 1916. Six of these showed up for the Saturday night's reunion. They were Clara Peters Steinmetz, of South Bend; Eulah Glade, 1055 Nickerson court, Benton Harbor; Echo Crandall Deaner, of Sodus; Maurine Miller, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Ben Bittner, of 1335 Miami road, Benton Harbor; and Oscar Lindt, of Berrien Springs.

Mrs. Deaner took the speaker's stand and recalled a memory of each of the class members, using a 1916 school annual for a guide.

Ed Merrill, Benton Harbor city commissioner, spoke on behalf of the class of 1941, now 25-year graduates who just this year became eligible to join the association. Membership is restricted to those who graduated 25 or more years ago.

JESSIE MORGAN

Also honored at the meeting were Jessie Morgan, 308 North Hull avenue, Benton Harbor, for being the oldest graduate present. She was in the class of 1902.

Mrs. Morgan received a floral piece and then came to the head table to read a poem popular when she was in school. The poem ridiculed the automobile.

Hilton Nowlen, class of 1915, was presented a copy of Wilbur Cunningham's book, "Land of Four Flags," for coming the farthest to the reunion. He is a resident of La Mesa, Calif.

Mrs. Erna Spink Piggott, 995 Jennings avenue, Benton Harbor, a graduate of the class of 1910, was presented a book "Chips Fell in the valley" for having the most children. She has six.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brandt, of Hartford, classes of 1914 and 1917 respectively, were presented a floral piece for having the most grandchildren, 23.

OFFICERS

A slate of officers of the association presented by the nominating committee was accepted by the group without nominations from the floor. The new officers are: John Paul Taylor, class of 1935, president; John Banyon, class of 1930, vice-president; Margaret Baumeister, class of 1937, secretary; John Kinney, class of 1921, treasurer.

Outgoing president was Thomas Millar. Ed Troffer was the night's program chairman.

Hardy Wolfe, comic and also serious violinist, entertained the group with a number of well-known selections between jokes and several violins that flew apart as he started to play them.

One half of the bridge has been resurfaced and is now open to traffic.

Success, Jaycees Say

COLOMA—The first of the Coloma Jaycees' annual gladiolus festivals was reported as a success by all persons concerned with the Saturday show.

Southwestern Gladiolus society members had nearly 400 registered spectators and had to turn away entries because of a lack of space at the Southwestern Michigan gladiolus show held in a vacant building on church street.

The kiddies parade on Paw Paw street drew a large number of entries and spectators. Jaycees reported their chicken barbecue was a sell out. Merchants said they had a large turnout of shoppers for Sidewalk Days sales Friday and Saturday.

Top winners in the glad show were Fred Fillmore, Vermillion, Ohio, who had the grand championship large; Jack Cartmell, Berea, Ohio, reserve champion large, and W. D. Dilts, route 2, Watervliet, who showed the grand and reserve champions in miniature plus the 100 and 200 grand size champions.

Fire Aimed
At Wasps
Backfires

Barn, Shed Near
Buchanan Burned

BUCHANAN — An attempt to smoke a nest of wasps from a tree yesterday, led to the fiery destruction of a 40 by 50 foot barn and 20 x 20 foot tool shed.

Bertrand township firemen responded to a call at 1:40 p.m. at the Robert Kirk farm, four miles west of Buchanan on the Buchanan-Gallen road. The farm was formerly owned by the late Martin Gilbert.

According to Adam Kuntz, Bertrand township fire chief, Kirk and some helpers were making repairs on the newly-acquired farm and were being troubled by a nest of wasps in a tree near the barn. He lit a fire in an attempt to drive the wasps away. The fire spread quickly through dry weeds and set the barn and shed on fire, Kuntz said.

Chief Kuntz made no estimate of damage, but said that Kirk reported that there was no insurance on the buildings. There was no livestock in either building.

Indiana
Youth, 18,
Dies Sunday

Morning Dip Is Fatal; Total
Up 5 From '65

Berrien county's toll of water tragedies climbed to 16 Sunday when an 18-year-old Indiana youth drowned at Clear lake near Buchanan.

The youth, Leonard Jackson, route 1, Elwood, Ind., drowned about 100 feet from shore near Fuller's resort, Berrien Sheriff's Department Marine Officer William Beilman reported.

He had been swimming with a companion, Thomas Derry, 17, Frankton, Ind., when he suddenly went under. Derry told sheriff's deputies he swam to help and Jackson grabbed him, dragging him under. Jackson later released his grip and Derry was able to reach the surface, but could not bring Jackson up.

Witnesses brought Jackson to shore but could not revive him. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Pawating hospital in Niles.

Beilman said Jackson was spending the weekend with the Earl Derry family at Weaver lake, about a half mile away. He and Thomas Derry had apparently decided to take a morning swim at Clear lake. He drowned in about 10 feet of water.

Beilman said Jackson was known to suffer from occasional seizures.

Jackson's death boosted the drowning total to 16, compared with 11 for all of 1965. The July 26 drowning of an eight-year-old boy at Warren Dunes state park had been listed as the county's 14th but later became number 15. An earlier drowning had been considered a suicide but was later ruled accidental, adding one to the total.

The body has been taken to the Jackley funeral home in Elwood, Ind., where funeral services are tentatively set for Tuesday. He is survived by his parents, Mrs. Eddy R. Baugher of Elwood and Howard E. Jackson, address unknown, and a brother, Michael, at home.

Carol Penagakis of Chicago applied artificial resuscitation until Watervliet firemen arrived. The boy was taken to Watervliet Community hospital, where he was treated and released.

Teachers'

Tax Vote

Supports Levy
In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Members of the South Haven Education association have voted to endorse the board of education's request for three tenths of one mill special tax in a school district election here Sept. 6.

In a prepared statement, association members said they "voted to support the three tenths of one mill assessment and urge the passage of this issue so as to assure full state aid."

While the fraction of a mill would raise $11,516 in extra operating money from the school district, it would also qualify the district for full state aid, or another $21,993. The total potential increase would be $33,514 for the 1966-67 school year.

Association members noted that the extra millage would

Robber Takes Only $20
From $200 In Register

A police roadblock brought the arrest of a 25-year-old Bradford, Ark., man Sunday night, about 30 minutes after a gun-wielding robbery held up Home Furnishings store at Baroda and took only a $20 bill from about $200 in the cash register.

Arrested in the roadblock by Niles police was Floyd Roger Dunham, 25. He was carrying a pistol that would fire only blank shells. He gave officers the address of a relative he had been visiting at route 1, Stevensville, for a couple of days. His home, however, is in Bradford, Ark.

State Police Troopers N.M. Haydnmacher and E.J. Olson of the New Buffalo post reported the bandit took only $20 from a till that contained almost $200 in cash.

Harold Widdis, owner of the furniture store, gave troopers and Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Douglas Tiefenbach the following account:

A young, thin man entered the store shortly after 9 p.m. and looked at some used refrigerators. He told Widdis he would bring his wife with him tomorrow, and then said he needed a package of cigarettes.

The man gave Widdis a dollar and when Widdis opened the cash register to make change he pulled a gun and said "I'll take $10." He then walked around the counter and took a $20 bill from the open cash register, but did not attempt to take any more of the money. He left his dollar with Widdis.

Widdis said the robber made him come outside and stand in front of the store as he drove away. He said the robber had an ivory colored car with no front license plate.

Tiefenbach said he felt the man would head toward the Niles area and called for a roadblock. Niles police Sgt. Max Cole and Patrolman

AT COST

Hill said the county was getting the land for exactly what the city has in it. Allen (Mike) Baker, building authority chairman, complimented Hill, Urban Renewal Director Thomas Daley and Auditor C. A. Hoffman for their work in obtaining the figures.

Baker said he felt it was unfortunate that Daley drew fire from the press when he presented figures at a meeting last week, and added he believed the difficulty came largely because of a misunderstanding.

The site cost figure could go either up or down and Behner referred to the approval as a blank check for the city. Hill said if it goes down the county will be given a rebate. However, if it goes up the county will pay more.

The county still owes $249,920.77 on construction of the building, but has $408,629.10 on hand from the original bond issue, leaving a balance of $158,708.33.

TOTAL COST

Total estimated cost for completion of the project — including balance due on the building — is $936,482.34. Subtracting funds on hand from original bonds leaves an estimated $577,853.24 needed for completion.

Figures discussed Friday added $22,146.76 for "contingencies," bringing the total to $600,000. Authority members, however, said they may ask supervisors to approve a $650,000 bond sale to cover any possibility of raises in prices.

Money left when the project is completed will go into the building bonds fund, authority members said.

LMC Sees
Record Fall
Enrollment

Aug. 19 Deadline
For Applications
Of Day Students

Student enrollment at Lake Michigan college this fall is almost certain to exceed the record number of persons who attended in the 1965-66 year, according to Registrar Karl Schlachach.

He announced at the same time that a deadline of Aug. 19 has been established for applications for full-time students in the day classes.

Schlachach said the applications of 725 new students have been accepted already, and that another 640 returning students have pre-registered. He emphasized that not all of the new applicants will actually enroll, for various reasons. "We always expect to lose a certain percentage," he said.

There were 1,152 day students enrolled last year, representing an increase of 20 per cent over the prior year.

OVERFLOW STUDENTS

Students who apply for admission after the Aug. 19 deadline will be put in the evening classes, or will be able to attend day classes only if there are vacancies when registration is completed.

Permits to register and instruction for registration will be mailed to applicants about the third week of August and will give complete information regarding orientation for new students, assignment of advisors, date and time of registration, and other pertinent material.

Schlachach said business administration is the single most popular field among the applicants as it has been in the past, but there is a decided pick-up in the fields of social studies (education), engineering and in the humanities and fine arts.

Evening college registration will begin on Sept. 12 and will continue through the following Thursday.

Schlachach said other information can be obtained by calling the LMC office of student affairs, or by visiting the LMC booth at the Berrien County Youth fair Aug. 16 through 20. He noted that inquiries about enrollment and courses are very heavy every year at the fair booth.

Four Hurt

Park Fight

Youths Battle

BRIDGMAN — Four local white youths Sunday evening received minor injuries in a fight with Negroes on Wilderness road in Warren Dunes State Park, New Buffalo state police reported.

Injured in the fight were Jerry Peters, 19, of Three Oaks who was hit on the head with a club; David Sparks, 22, who had a tooth broken; Elmer Coopland, 18, who was bruised and scratched; and Richard Glaske, 19, who received a deep cut on his arm. The last three youths are of route 1, Sawyer.

Troopers said the four told them they found several Negro youths hanging around some cars parked on Wilderness road, where police pointed out petty thefts from autos were reported in the past. Police said the youths told them they told the Negroes to leave or they would call police. It was then that the fight started, troopers said, adding that there were around six or seven Negroes. When they arrived police said the Negroes had fled. The Negro youths were believed to possess a club and a lineoleum cutter as weapons, troopers said.

Marchers Jeered In Chicago

Rain, Police Cool Off White Crowd

CHICAGO (AP)—Some 1,500 civil rights demonstrators marched through a crowd of some 2,000 jeering, rock-throwing whites Sunday in an all-white neighborhood on Chicago's Northwest Side.

Solid walls of police protected the integrated band of marchers as they took their demands for open housing back to the streets of the Cragin section of Chicago for the third time. It was the largest protest group to march since demonstrations calling for open housing began in white neighborhoods 10 days ago.

Intense hostility flared in the first half hour of the march. Firecrackers exploded at the feet of policemen. Rocks and bottles rained on the marchers. Police squadrons charged the hecklers. Several white persons who refused to obey police and fought back were clubbed and thrown into police vans.

A policeman fired several times above the heads of the mob. Then a summer rainstorm took the edge off the violence.

The marchers trudged on in the rain, trailed by bands of hooting white teen-agers.

They stopped twice in the rain, for brief prayer vigils in front of two churches—one Lutheran, the other Roman Catholic.

One of the marchers, a Catholic priest, stood on the steps of St. Genevieve's Roman Catholic Church and said: "We pray we shall be forgiven for the hardness of heart that causes some of us to treat other individuals as less than persons and that leads some of us to prefer prejudice and dollars to love and justice. Forgive those, we pray, who break the city law in refusing to rent and sell housing to all men."

As the marchers left the church, white teen-agers screamed: "White power! Kill the niggers!"

By the end of the nearly four miles of march, 21 white hecklers had been arrested and dozens were injured.

"God bless white bigots," read the slogan on one of dozens of signs that greeted the civil rights demonstrators.

Others boosted the causes of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and the National States Rights party. One knot of counter demonstrators carried a banner identified as the flag of the National States Rights party. It bore a red lightning bolt superimposed on a Confederate flag. The marchers were led by Al Raby, head of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, and the Rev. James Bevel and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, aides to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King, who was hit with a rock during a demonstration on the Southwest Side Friday, did not march Sunday.

He was in Jackson, Miss., attending the annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which he heads. Nothing the large number of marchers, Bevel shouted above the jeers of hecklers: "This is a great indication of the movement. We will not be intimidated by crowds and violence."

King and his aides have made Chicago the prime northern target city in their campaign to open housing and jobs to Negroes. They focused in recent weeks on charges that while real estate firms sell and rent to white persons but not to Negroes.

"POLISH POWER" A police squad car equipped with a loud speaker preceded the marchers and a police officer warned hecklers to disperse.

Many of them refused. Others retreated, then came back to display signs. One read, "Polish power."

The neighborhood is predominantly Roman Catholic. Many hecklers reserved their sharpest taunts for the nuns and priests who walked with the demonstrators.

Benton Man Is Jailed

X. L. Watson, 31, of 310 South Fair avenue, was arrested by Benton township police this morning and charged with entering a building without permission, being drunk and disorderly and with probation violation.

According to Township Patrolman Lynn Rivette, Ruby Booth, 1038 Blossom lane, Benton township, called police because Watson had entered her home. She said she had awakened to find Watson standing over her bed.

Reds Down Seven U.S. Aircraft

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The U.S. military command announced today that American pilots encountered a near-record 24 Soviet-built missiles over North Viet Nam Sunday when seven U.S. planes were shot down. It was the heaviest loss in a single day of the air war.

Under the command's revised information policy, a spokesman refused to say whether any of the planes were hit by surface-to-air missiles. He said only that they were lost to ground fire rather than to enemy planes.

Earlier, a spokesman said no missiles had been sighted Sunday. There was no explanation of the change in the report.

Only two of the nine fliers were rescued as the Communists kept up their withering ground fire to drive off U.S. rescue helicopters, an American military spokesman said.

The others were listed as missing in action, although the Air Force said pilots sighted three parachutes and heard signals from two "beeper" rescue radios.

CLAIM CAPTIVES Radio Hanoi, which also reported seven American planes downed Sunday, said some pilots were captured. It did not give the number or any identities.

A possible portent of heavier air attacks against North Viet Nam came with the disclosure that the U.S. 7th Fleet had moved a third attack carrier into the Tonkin Gulf area for operations above the 17th Parallel. Normally, one carrier stays on "Dixie Station" off the South Vietnamese Coast while two others operate off the northern coast on "Yankee Station."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon hinted that U.S. officers in Saigon believe at least half a million American troops are needed to win the war.

Nixon gave that estimate just before leaving for Manila after a three-day visit during a world tour. Although the former Republican presidential candidate presented the number of men needed as a personal assessment, he had just come from meetings with top U.S. military men in Saigon.

FIVE-YEAR WAR? Current Pentagon plans call for increasing the present American force of about 290,000 men to 400,000 by the end of the year. But even with more troops some American military men think the war may continue for five years. They also feel the United States will have to keep some troops in Viet Nam for 15 to 20 years.
